The Department of Defense (DoD) has made efforts to adapt to the evolution of military families since the inauguration of the All-Volunteer Force, however many quality of life and personnel policies are not aligned to what military families want.

RECOMMENDATIONS:
1. Tailor recruitment messaging specifically for females and modern military families
2. Help Americans understand centrality of military families to national security and communities
3. Comprehensively assess and standardize requirements impacting military families’ quality of life