We know military families!

They're concerned about military spouse employment, time away from their families, their finances, and all the issues that arise when they move to new duty stations every two to three years.

We are what military family support looks like.

Together with our partners, we:

- Grew the bilingual careers pipeline by 626 As a direct result of our research, the 2022 NDAA requires the DoD to collect and report demographic data about SROTC scholarship awards and completion rates for the first time.

Blue Star Families' research discovered that students of color are widely under-represented among recipients of ROTC scholarships and accessions to the officer corps.

The DoD does not have sufficient data collection measures to understand why.

The background of the slide is a stylized American flag. It features a blue field with white stars on the left and red and white stripes on the right. The stars are arranged in a grid pattern, and the stripes are curved and flowing. The overall color palette is dominated by blue and white, with a hint of red from the stripes.

Message From Our Leadership

Dear Blue Star Family,

With your involvement, Blue Star Families experienced another year of extraordinary growth and opportunity as we relentlessly pursue solutions to the underlying and interlocking problems that we all know military-connected families face:

Only 33%

of active-duty families feel like they belong to the communities where they live

26%

of enlisted active-duty families reported food insecurity in the past year

29%

of active-duty spouses need or want to find employment

This report shares highlights of our 2022 upstream solutions with you. Thank you for your partnership! With you by our side, we can work toward this vision:

Wherever military-connected families go, their neighbors welcome and support them, building a stronger nation for all of us.

As you read through these pages, I hope you feel the power of what we are accomplishing together, including:

- An incredible sense of belonging for families that comes from our Chapters
- Insightful research that fuels our programming and advocacy
- The powerful impact of our Campaign for Inclusion

... and so much more

Through our data-driven model, we are reaching new milestones, increasing policymakers' understanding of the real struggles of military families, and offering viable solutions to complex interlocking problems. We are the leading organization to do so.

Thank you for all you do to help Blue Star Families make military life awesome for those who serve and protect our freedom. ★

Blue Star Families Chapters

Members who belong to Blue Star Chapters feel a better sense of belonging to their communities and they also feel more valued. We know that time spent away from family is a major concern to military families who feel isolation from moving every 2-3 years. ★

Community connection is key when family is far away, so evolving our Chapters plays heavily into our organizational priorities.

Highlights

- Volunteers supported our Chapters by donating more than 12,000 hours
- Launched our New England Chapter
- Hosted and collaborated on nationwide food distribution events, reaching more than 7,000 military family members
- Began plans to launch a Chapter in the Puget Sound Region of the Pacific Northwest

| Social Impact

At Blue Star Families, we measure social impact by how welcomed, engaged, and valued our members feel in their communities. We take a data-driven and evidence-based approach to our programming to ensure that we're meeting our members where they're at and providing the support and resources that they need, when they need them.

Social impact is a team sport at Blue Star Families that includes Chapters, Programs, Applied Research, and Policy departments.

We put our members first. They provide us direction by participating in our surveys, by engaging with our programs, and providing us the insights we need to advocate for the policies that can positively impact their lives. This is how we get to know and advocate for military families. It is the core starting point of everything that we do. ★

Make Military Life Awesome

How do we make military life awesome? We engage our members in programming and events that are fun, welcoming, and provide connections to their communities! Members engage with our Blue Star Families community in many ways: museum visits, outdoor exploration, career opportunities and developments, caregiving support circles, coffee connects to meet new friends, and more! ★

Blue Star Families provides resources for members to take the edge off of difficult aspects of military life, and provide support in ways that fit with their lifestyle.

Campaign for Inclusion

In 2022, we expanded our Racial Equity Initiative into the Blue Star Families Campaign for Inclusion to inform, partner, and empower stakeholders to implement best practices that help diverse military families feel welcome and included in the communities they call home.

Inclusion is a lens through which all of Blue Star Families' social impact work operates.

While many businesses and organizations responded to the rallying cries of 2020 for action on race and inclusion, it is now clear that fewer have maintained an ongoing and meaningful set of activities designed to engage with, and address, the underlying issues. While there is a tremendous amount of history to overcome and challenges to meet, Blue Star Families is determined to engage long-term in this arena with our members, partners, and policymakers. ★

Highlights

- On Secretary Esper's recommendation, assisted by Generals George Casey and Mick Nicholson, we drafted the Defense Leaders Statement, signed by current and former service chiefs, combatant commanders, and other influential signatories.
- Nine individuals from diverse backgrounds graduated from our DEPLOY Fellowship Program. DEPLOY — Diversify and Expand the Pipeline of Leaders of Your Military Community — mentors and trains talent for eventual positions of leadership in military and Veteran service organization spaces.

of DEPLOY Fellows feel empowered to achieve their own career goals

89%

of graduates received full-time employment within three months of program completion

- We presented our findings and recommendations on the experiences of military families of color to more than 150 groups and reaching more than 2,000 people including members of U.S. Army INSCOM, senior DOD officials, and military base commanders. More than 230 media pieces featured our findings.
- As a direct result of our research, the 2022 NDAA requires the DOD to collect and report demographic data about SROTC scholarship awards and completion rates for the first time.
